

Please look at the following list. You may wish to consider these points should you wish to take your application forward. These are some of the skills that we will require from a fully trained Clinical Research Nurse.

You may have some of these now, but will gain a lot of them whilst learning the role. Please read through and put a tick in the relevant box. As long as you are able to put a tick in one of the columns for each item, you have most of the qualities that we require.

		Can already do	Understand but can't do	Happy to learn
1	Fluent English both written and verbal
2	Valid driving licence and own transport
3	Happy to drive in all weathers and to unknown places
4	To be able to write and send e-mails
5	To send attachments on e-mails
6	To enter data on databases
7	To work autonomously and make decisions
8	To learn about ICH GCP
9	To read and summarise protocols
10	To talk to patients on the phone
11	To talk to department heads, who you may not know
12	To be responsible for your own learning and to determine your own learning needs
13	To give out drugs to patients
14	To take blood
15	To cannulate
16	To do spirometry
17	To do ECGs
18	To arrange your own clinics and meetings
19	To document carefully the care of the patients
20	To organise patient expenses
21	To up date the office on patients visits completed
22	To up date the office on meetings arranged and with whom
23	To attend investigator meetings abroad and in the UK
24	To visit new doctors at GPs and hospitals to see if they would like to do research with us
25	To keep everyone informed of your progress
26	To have the ability to roll up your sleeves and try something new

July 2009